Dear Family,

Every child is gifted. Some children draw especially well; others tell good stories; some display agility and good coordination; others can take things apart and put them back together with ease. Whatever your child can do, or not do, he or she is a pure gift from God. You will want to show appreciation of your child's gifts and help him or her build upon them.

Hannah Shared Her Happy Feelings

Listen to the Bible story.
Then color Hannah and her baby.

Long ago and far away,
A woman cried to God one day.
“Oh send me, please, a little son.
With him I could have so much fun!”

She cried her tears and prayed all day.
She felt sad and could not play.
Then God made Hannah’s dream come true
With Samuel, a baby new.

She told a friend, “I’m happy now!
God helped me smile and laugh somehow.
Each new morning, I’ll smile and say,
‘Oh, God, I give you love today’.”

Based on 1 Samuel 1:1–29

Hannah Sang a Happy Song

Hannah was so happy that she sang this song.

My heart praises God.

I am happy.

I know God loves me.

Everyone will call me happy.

God has given me a wonderful gift.

Based on 1 Samuel 2:1-10

You can share your feelings, too.

Show your feelings for the baby.

Draw a gift for Hannah's baby.

Dear Family,

Hannah shared her feelings with her friends. She shares them with us all, for they are recorded in the First Old Testament Book of Samuel, which is the story of her son. Like Hannah, your child wants to share the happy, successful events of life and the sad feelings he or she experiences. Add to your child's feelings of self-worth by being a good listener.
